

PRESS RELEASE

Eagle Rock Art Guild - WAC Professional Offices

Idaho Falls, ID, December 16, 2015:

The Idaho Falls Arts Council is pleased to announce that the Eagle Rock Art Guild is moving into the Willard Arts Center Professional Offices at 440 N Capital in downtown Idaho Falls.

“When art organizations are centered in a hub of the community the impact on culture and overall impact/significance of art is even greater. My belief is that each organization and each individual artists has unique qualities that bring together a community, a culture of togetherness. I am very grateful as an artist and the President of the Eagle Rock Art Guild, for the organizations within the area that create the rich culture and history of Idaho Falls and SE Idaho. It's rewarding and beneficial for ERAG to have an office space in the cultural downtown, not only so that we can gather and continue with years of programming, but have a place where it all comes together at a 'vantage point',” said Kamber Weninger, President of the Eagle Rock Art Guild.

“A key part of our mission is to work with other arts organizations to continue growing and developing the arts in our area, so we are thrilled that the Eagle Rock Art Guild has found a home here,” said Brandi Newton, Executive Director of the Idaho Falls Arts Council, “It has long been a dream of ours to have the Willard Arts Center be a hub of arts for our community, and this brings us another step closer.”

The Eagle Rock Art Guild is joining the Idaho Falls Symphony, Olivia Hicks Photography, Jen Dixon Photography, Jolie West Photography, and others in the WAC Professional Offices at 440 N Capital. The Eagle Rock Art Guild will announce office hours in the first of the year.
